Council Affirms Hamilton As City Clerk Vice Miles

Deposed Clerk Addresses Communications to Commission, Declaring He'll Wage Finish Fight

The city commission today reaffirmed J. C. Hamilton as city clerk in a general discussion between the commissioners and City Attorney V. J. Wistner.

Mayor Logan authorized Hamilton to employ an assistant and asked Hamilton to prepare a bond for himself as city clerk as soon as possible.

E. H. Miles, who has held forth as city clerk for several months through battles in court, sent letters to members of the city commission today setting forth in vigorous terms his position, saying he would carry the fight to a finish.

Wistner advised the commission this morning not to pay Hamilton the difference between the present salary of $200 and the city clerk's salary of $300 a month from August 22, when Hamilton was appointed, to the present time until the 15-day period for motion of rehearing had passed. Miles has not been paid any salary since the time of his discharge in August for the second time by the commission.

"Mr. Hamilton has really done all the work for the last year and a half," Logan said in meeting this morning, "and we don't want him to do it any longer for $200 a month."

Wistner told the commissoin that he did not think any injunction would be in force against the city during the time of a possible pending appeal to the supreme court, and that Hamilton could be safely paid the $300 salary after the 15-day limit expiring next week on Friday.

Nerve of 'Parent's Pet' Blamed By High School Tutor for Row

Minnesotan Says Electric Chair Not Used to Punish Students But to Make Experimental Tests

BARNESVILLE, Minn., Oct. 22.—The tender nerve of a "parent's pet" was blamed today by H. T. Upsahl, science teacher in the high school, for charges that he used an "electrical chair" to punish pupils.

Upsahl was arrested on a charge of assault after he had placed Earl Tenneson, a 14-year-old student, in the chair and gave him a shock. Two other refractory boys were given the same treatment, Upsahl told the United Press today, and several girls took the shock out of curiosity.

"We rigged up a common office chair to a test coil of very high frequency for experimental purposes," Upsahl said. "It is impossible to hurt anyone. The boy was not injured in any way.

"When the experiments were over I warned the boys that any disorder would result in a treatment in the chair. The apparatus is the same as that used by physicians in the treatment of rheumatism. It is harmless."

Young Tenneson and two other boys were 'out of order,'" he said, "and they went willingly to the chair to take their promised punishment.

"Young Tenneson got sore and told his parents. He is what is known as a parent's pet," Upsahl said.

Upsahl is 52 and came here from Texas two years ago. At liberty on $2,000 bail, he faces trial Saturday.

"The plot had been so fully worked out that even cabinet posts in the proposed regime had been distributed.

"The government has had knowledge for sometime," the statement said, "of the criminal intentions of the plotters and awaited only the proper time for repressive action.

"When full proof was obtained government agents succeeded in surprising the malcontents, who evidently had planned their outbreak for today.

Shoaling of the entrance to Tampico harbor by floods in the Panuco river, bringing down silt and sand is not unusual, shipping men here pointed out, and said that the current often washes out the channed without dredging. ## Political Scrap Over Ku Klux Makes Indiana Race Puzzle

Hooded Figure Stands Silently in Background As Campaign Pot Begins to Boil Over

INDIANAPOLIS Ind., Oct. 22.—With the hooded figure of the Ku Klux Klan standing silently in the background, the state of Indiana is a greater enigma than ever to politicians in the present campaign.

In many sections of the state, the klan fight injected into the governorship race has completely disrupted party lines, has turned political brother against political brother and has diverted attention from all other state and natoinal questions.

There will be more scratched tickets and more bolting of party ranks among Hoosier voters on November 4, than for many years as a result of the klan scrap, it is indicated.

The klan showed tremendous strength in the spring primaries when it rallied to the support of Ed Jackson in the race for the republican nomination for governor and helped nominate him over a field of seven other candidates. Whether the klan will have the same solidarity and disregard party allegiance in the election is the problem that is causing politicians the greatest uneasiness.

'MAKE THE FAIR BIGGER IN 1925'

Port Arthur's fair in 1925 should conform to its opportunities, incerase its scope, be housed in permanent buildings and be planned with an idea to make it ultimately an event representative not only of Port Arthur but of a vast surrounding territory as well.

This was the theme underlying a series of interviews to The News by business men today.

The interviews follow:

HENRY MAITRE, labor official: "This year's fair spoke for itself so strongly, additional comment isn't necessary. It was so good we should endeavor to carry forth the expansion idea of making it a gulf coast proposition so that thousands beside ourselves can enjoy it and profit by it.

PERRY PACE, furniture dealer: "We now know we can't do without a fair. Make it grow by all means and let's make it one of the best in Texas and a credit to the gulf coast area."

JULIUS DEUTSER, department store: "The fair was one of the best I have ever seen and in many points far outclassed the older Beaumont fair. Displays of merchandising art, curiosities and other exhibits were wonderful. Make it permanent and let it include all surrounding territory and be recognized as one of the big events of the state."

F. E. GIFFORD, furniture dealer: "Keep the co-operation and momentum of the fair, just closed, and a Gulf coast exhibition can be put over as successfully as the first attempt.

GEORGE CARTER, lumberman: "We should build for permanency with more grounds and substantial buildings and develop the expansion idea.

GEORGE E. STOVALL, manager Phoenix Furniture company: "With the first annual Port Arthur Fair unanimously pronounced a success, the prospects for an even greater and better fair next year are excellent. The fair this year goes to show what Port Arthur can do, and it would be disappointing if the fair should ever be allowed to die."

When the American Federation of Labor meets in El Paso November 17, it will be the first labor convention held in Texasa for 44 years, with the exception of a meeting of the four brotherhoods at Houston several years ago, says Henry Maitre, Port Arthur delegate. Transportation from El Paso to Mexico City will be furnished free by the Mexican government.

During the time that several thousand American labor delegates are convening in El Paso the Mexican Confederation of Labor will meet at Juarez, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso.

CHECKS

This is another of a series of advertisements by Employes of the First National Bank. Others will follow. Watch for them.

BY J. M. NICKLEBUR

It is an every day occurrence for checks that are cashed or handled by the many business firms of Port Arthur to be returned by this bank and others for small irregularities that could be detected when a check is presented; thus, saving time and worry endeavoring to get errors corrected.

For your guidance, the following might be observed:

WATCH FOR

Checks dated ahead.

Checks dated too far back.

Be sure the maker uses a check drawn on the bank where his money is deposited. Try to get street address or telephone number.

See that the amount in figures and the amount in writing are the same.

Be more careful if the purchase is to be taken, or if a large amount of change is to be returned.

Be sure all Government, State and County checks are endorsed in INK only.

Be sure Government checks, and all others, are endorsed exactly as drawn.

Don't take a big chance just because the sale is big.

These are given for what they may be worth as a little Safety First Precaution, and if followed will probably save yourself or employer time and money.

TOM MEIGHAN HERE

Tom Meighan's back in a love-crook melodrama, "The Confidence Man," at the Strand, bringing the "good luck" star to the screen in the role of a clever confidence man type of crook. From this point the story steps right along.

"ON TIME"

An example of what motion picture titles should be is to be seen in "On Time," starring Richard Talmadge, which is at the Liberty Theater tomorrow. The play is highly humorous and this fact is accentuated by the humorous titles which appear throughout the play.

"NEVER SAY DIE"

"We furnish everything but the corespondent."

This is the pertinent statement made by the divorce detective to Douglas MacLean in the star's comedy success, "Never Say Die," at the Cameo theater.

Douglas thinks his wife wants a divorce and decides to give her one. Then friend wife arrives and shows that she loves him very much. Enter the corespondent who has been all primed to "do her stuff" right in front of Douglas' wife.

Dr. Frank Crane's Editorials

THE ANONYMOUS LETTER

People of common sense do not take anonymous letters seriously. An unsigned letter betrays the fact that the writer is ashamed of it. An unsigned letter is just like unbranded goods.

When a manufacturer produces something of which he is proud he brands it with a distinct trademark and gives it a name.

For this reason, nationally advertised goods carry with them the assurance of their purity. For goods which are not advertised show that the maker of them lacks assurance.

The manufacturer who advertises his product invests good money in making a brand familiar to you. His advertising is profitable so long as you continue to buy his product. But, of course, if the quality should alter for the worse you would cease to buy and his advertising becomes a dead loss.

Thus there is a reactionary effect of advertising upon the quality of material. The very fact that a man spends large sums in making a particular brand known is a guarantee that he is keeping the goods branded up to the mark. And if goods are not branded it is an evidence that there is no authority behind them, no guarantee of their genuineness.

The public is justified in putting its faith in advertised products.

No lie can keep up if it is made universal. By and by the public come to suspect it. Just as a light at a street corner is better than a policeman, so the publicity of advertising it better than any threatened action in the courts.

Advertising shows that a man is not ashamed of his product and that he is sure that the use of it will bring him more trade.

Those who use unbranded goods are the small minority who belive in and read anonymous letters.

In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—When the ZR-3 loomed out of the fog and greeted New York thousands of persons gazed upwards, speechless at the sight.

Some waved their hats or handkerchiefs. Some manifested their emotional reaction in tears. One woman, asked why she cried, said, "Because it has been up there so long without touching land."

But the most blase of all observers was a taxi driver on Seventh avenue. Seeing people peering up into the clouds, he poked his head out, took one brief look and turning to his passenger said, "Some fish!" and drove on.

You hear much of London fogs, but little of New York's. Yet New York has its own litle fog every morning in the fall and spring. It arises with the sun.

Standing atop the 24-story Printing Crafts building at Eighth avenue and 33rd street the morning the ZR-3 arrived, I was unable to see the first five stories of the Pennsylvania Hotel, just one block away.

James H. Hocking was 69 the other day. He celebrated by walking 69 miles in 14 hours and five minutes. That was 55 minutes less than he took to walk 68 miles on his last birthday.

He started from his home in Yonkers at 3 a. m. and had the benefit of a full moon until dawn. He went through Hastings, Dobbs Ferry, Elmsdorf, Briarcliff, around Croton Lake to Amawalk, and ate a light lunch at Peckskill, 41 miles away, before noon. He returned to Getty Square, Yonkers, at 5:05 p. m. He was paced part of the way by Mr. Murphy, principal of the Hastings High school, and by Alexander Jessup, former president of the Walkers' club.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN SLUSH FUND PROBE UNEARTHS BIG MONEY GIFTS

Money talks. Republicans have contributed in cash $1,700,000 to the Coolidge campaign chest. This much has been spent thus far in the campaign.

Money talks. Republicans have pledged an additional $1,300,000 to the campaign chest of their party and every dollar of it will be spent before the November election day.

National Chairman William M. Butler found himself on the rack. His tormenter was Senator Caraway of Arkansas. Caraway is a democratic scorpion. He has a tongue that is searching as well as sarcastic. Two letters had fallen into the hands of Philistines. They were written by republicans.

These republicans suggested that the republican manufacturers and office holders of Massachusetts would raise $500,000 slush fund as the quota of the Old Bay state. A second letter called upon Joseph P. Grundy and William L. Mellon of Pennsylvania to contribute $600,000 as the offering of the wealthy patriots of the keystone state.

Chairman Butler, without cracking a smile, looked the Arkansas Caraway in the eye and said that he had sternly disapproved of the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania methods for frying the fat to get the oil to grease the republican machine wheels.

Caraway let it go at that. Chairman Borah must have grinned. Rutabaga Magnus Johnson of Minnesota, who represents the turnip interests of the country, must have shrieked.

These secret letters fell into the hands of Fighting Bob La Follette. He made public their contents. This gave National Chairman Butler ample time to prepare a defense.

Now who is Joseph P. Grundy? He is the president of the manufacturer's association, the real boss of Pennsylvania politics. Boise Penrose was a political boss, the greatest of his kind. Penrose has been in the saddle for twenty years. He is a man of millions. He wouldn't hold an office. He had other fish to fry.

For twenty years Pennsylvania has had another boss. Mellon is his name. Pennsylvania has two republican bosses. Big business controls Pennsylvania. They know that money talks. They know that high tariff keeps a stream of golden coin flowing into the coffers of the big interests.

This is why the house of steel, the house of iron, the house of coal and the house of oil, all Pennsylvania institutions or enterprises, are ready to shell out money for republican policies of government and republican candidates for office. Their big men, their dictators, know what they want and how to get it.

And never overlook the house of aluminum. This house was making twenty per cent every year. To keep it from going broke it was given tariff protection to increase its profits 240 per cent a year. John W. Davis has the figures. He has been pelting the people with his ammunition.

Money talks but the democrats and the La Folletteites together haven't been able to raise one million dollars since the beginning of the campaign. Why the republicans of Pennsylvania or Massachusetts would be able to raise a million dollars in a day for private circulation in each of the states for election purposes and the Borah committee would not be able to get trace of a single dollar of it before the coming of the national election of 1932.

SPEAKS FOR THE SAINTS

Senator Reed Smoot of Utah has advised the republicans of Iowa to vote against Senator Smith William Brookhart, republican nominee for re-election. Senator Reed Smoot is the spiritual voice of the Mormon saints of Utah. It is his custom to fall upon his knees and appeal to the god of the Mormons for spiritual guidance before he takes direct political action.

He did this before he cast a vote to retain Newberry in his seat, before he voted to crucify the league of nations and all the policies of Woodrow Wilson.

Senator Smoot is one of the twelve apostles of the mormon church. He believes in the rule of the apostles and the blind obedience of the laity. As a reactionary he has no superior. He is positive that the world is flat and of the opinion that only the wealthy and the wise should have a voice in the control of public affairs.

Broohart is running wild on the Iowa prairies and the gamblers are betting ten to one that he will be re-elected.

Your Money AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

A few good rules can be laid down for young married couples who wish to save for future income.

The few rules, or maxims, outlined here are not copy book slogans, they are rules which one very successful young couple laid out for themselves and adhered to. This young couple will have $10,000 saved by the time they are thirty—which is still two years away. Of course, judicious investment and reinvestment have helped build up this sum—but there has been no out and out "speculation" or get rich quick dabbling. Here are the rules they adopted:

1. We pay cash for everything, even though our credit is good.
2. We outline a schedule of savings for each year at the beginning of the year—we have always met this schedule.
3. We study investments and try to make good ones—with the aid of our banker. Our losses have been practically nothing.
4. All that we have is held jointly so that both of us have an interest in seeing the fund grow.

This acquisition of $10,000 by the thirtieth year means that this couple, by conservative management, will have an income of $200 per month by the time they are fifty.

The Affair at Flower Acres

by CAROLYN WELLS

©1924 by NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Malcolm Finley, returning from Japan, is invited to Flower Acres, the Long Island home of Douglas Raynor, husband of Nancy, who is a former swetheart of Finley's. Finley discovers that Raynor is tyrannizing over Nancy and is incensed. At Flower Acres are Ezra Goddard, friend of Finley; Nancy; her devoted brother, Orville Kent; Douglas Raynor; Raynor's sister, Miss Mattie, and others. Finley realizes he is regarded with suspicion by Raynor and Miss Mattie because of his old love affair with Nancy. Finley talks to Nancy one morning in the gardens of the estate and is discovered by Miss Mattie. "I felt sure that you would be making love to my brother's wife," she says. Finley has calmed her suspicions when Dolly Fay, a little neighbor girl, shakes a finger at Nancy and Finley, and says, "Got your spooning done?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She said nothing, but her thin lips came together in a straight line of faded pink, and her thing gray hair seemed almost sentient as the canny old head wagged in understanding.

"It was you I was spooning with," Finley said to her, with a glance of exaggerated reproach. "You called me your fairy prince—and then you ran off and left me."

CHAPTER II

Who Fired the Shot?

Luncheon that day was not a festive affair.

Finley caught Nan alone for a moment, just before they were summoned to the dining-room.

"Would you rather I went home today?" he asked, briefly.

"No, oh, no," she said, and a look of distress came to her face. "Don't do that! Stay—stay and protect me - something may happen—"

"Sweethearting as usual?" came Raynor's caustic voice and the two started guiltily apart. Though utterly innocent in word or deed, the consciousness of their mutual feelings made them especially sensitive to the jibes of Nan's husband.

"Oh, don't mind me," their tormentor went on.

He slipped his arm round her, chuckling as he noted her almost uncontrollable shrinking away from him.

"There, there, my beauty," and he touched her cheek caressingly, "she's a restive little filly, Malcolm, she needs a bit of taming yet.

"You don't want me too tame, I'm sure," Nan said, brightly, but Finley saw the look of utter aversion in her eyes.

Nor was it difficult to understand. Though a handsome-featured man, Douglas Raynor had a pale, anemic look that contrasted sharply with Nan's fine, wholesome color. He seemed, too, a little short of breath, though whether this meant the man was ill or merely in a temper, Finley wasn't sure. But he did wonder if the dietitian knew her business, for, to his mind, Raynor was in need of medical advice.

At the luncheon table he was moody; now bursting into a perfect stream of chatter, then, as suddenly, lapsing into a sullent silence. He called frequently for water, draining his glass so often that Miss Turner looked at him thoughtfully.

"Stop looking at me, Eva," he cried out. "I suppose water is free —if some other beverages are not."

"I haven't said a word, Mr. Raynor," the nurse observed.

"You don't have to. You just roll those hard-boiled eyes of yours at me, and I know what you mean. Hatfield, give me a pitcher of water—a thermost jug of it. I will have what I want in my own house! Confound that damned clock! I never heard such a racket of ticking! Finley, what do you think of a wife who buys a noisy, clattering clock, and hangs it on the dining-room wall, for no reason but that she knows I tetest to hear it tick?"

"Oh, come now, Douglas," and Nan smiled bravely, "you know you wanted me to find a real old banjo clock—"

"But not to put in the dining-room—of all places! Hatfield, take the beastly thing down!"

The butler looked at his mistress for confirmation of this order, and, as she nodded her head, he took the offending timepiece down and carried it from the room.

Finley was watching Nan, who at the moment was pouring coffee into demi-tasses. Her lips quivered a little, but she was calm and smiling. Still looking at her, Finley saw a little movement of her hand over the cup destined for her husband.

Surely, surely, she dropped something into it. And then, with a furtive, almost frghitened air, she glanced quickly around the table as if to see if she had been observed.

"Saccharine, of course," Finley said to himself. "What's the matter with me? I'm seeing things. Probably his nibs is forbidden sugar. But why the scared glance? Why, probably he doesn't know it, and would scold if he did. What a brute he is! I wish I could kill him!"

Orry, across the table, was nervously twisting the corners of his napkin into spirals. As a result of shell-shock in the war, his nerves were still in bad shape. Yet Orville Kent was not so much affected by the ticking of a clock or any material annoyances as he was by the mental atmosphere about him. And, when Douglas Raynor broke into real tantrums, Kent not infrequently rose and left the table.

At this juncture, however, they all left the table.

Raynor went off at once for the confab with Miss Turner that followed every meal, and that settled the menu for the next one. Thus, three times a day Nan was sure of a half-hour's respite, and those were the only times she was sure of.

"Come, sit in the swing a moment or two, Malcolm," Nan said, her eyes emphasizing the invitation.

"Me, too?" asked Goddard, very much on the watch against indiscretions.

"Yes, indeed; I'll sit between you," and Nan appropriated the middle cushion of the wide swing on the west terrace.

"I can't bear that dietitian person," she said abruptly, and decidedly.

"Why do you have her here, then?" Goddard inquired.

"Because Douglas thinks he's ill—or would be, if he didn't have his diet carefully watched. But I think he's less well since she came than before."

"He doesn't seem very well," Finley agreed. "Is that the reason he scolds you so much, Nan?"

"I daresay. Though he's always been pettish if I cross him in any way."

"You oughtn't to put up with it!" Finley burst out.

"It's none of your business, Mal," Goddard interrupted. "You've no right to speak like that."

"No, you haven't," Nan said, gravely. "Whatever he says or does, he's my husband, and therefore entitled to my respect and the respect of my guests."

"Hullo!" cried Dolly Fay, suddenly appearing before them. "Here you are, and, oh, Nan, I say, what do you think? That Fairy Prince of mine isn't a Fairy Prince at all! He's a whitewashed sepulcher! A base dee-deceiver! What do you think he did? He called me a brat! Oh, how I hate you, Mr. Finley!"

"I did—I own up—but it was in a moment of anger. I apologize."

"And take it back?"

"Bah!" and Dolly made a saucy face at him. "Then I won't play tennis with you—and I do want a game."

"Take me on," and Goddard rose to oblige her.

"Glad to, I'm told your're a crack player."

"That was good of old Ezra," Finley said; "I may not get a chance with you alone again. Nan, can I help you in any way?"

"No, dear, of course you can't." Then she flushed enchantingly at the unintentional word, and said, very seriously, "We can't hide it from ourselves—I do care for you, Malcolm —I think I always have cared, but I am a wife—and," she drew herself up proudly, "I am a Caesar's wife. Never shall I fail in the most minute particular of any duty I owe my husband. I do want you to go away—and I never want to see you again—as long as Douglas lives. If he should —if anything should happen—Oh, Mal, I am at the end of my rope! I can't live with him! I can't. You've no idea how awful he can be—"

"You needn't live with him, Nan. Surely you can get a separation—"

"Oh, no, I didn't mean that!" Nan's horified eyes spurned the thought. "But—oh, I don't know what I mean—only, Malcolm, I am his wife, and as such I owe him all honor and all duty—and I propose to pay it!"

"Fine talk, my dear—but a bit hifalutin!" Raynor stepped out from the house, and came up behind the pair in the swing. "Methinks the lady doth protest too much. You can bet you're going to pay me all you so truly say you owe me. Now, Mr. Finley, as you seem to be a menace to the tranquil happiness of my home, perhaps it would be as well if you began to think of making your farewells. I asked you down here to learn how matters stood between you and my wife. I've learned."

"But I, too, have learned something," Finley said. "I have learned how matters stand between you and your wife, and I have a remark to make—which is that unless you give me your promise as man to man to treat her with more kindness after I am gone, than you have done during my stay here, I shall not go at once."

"That is a strange thing to say to a husband."

"It is, because you are a strange husband. Now, if your unkindness to Nan has been simply because of my presence here, and if it will cease with my departure, I will go away immediately. But not otherwise."

"Bless my soul! You presume to dictate to me!"

"I do. As a friend of your wife, and as a friend of humanity, I insist upon the promise I require."

"And you shall have it, Mr. Finley, I promise you that if you will remove your presence from my rooftree, I will at once transform myself into the most gentle, loving and kind-tempered of husbands. I will be docile, meek and mild. Can I say more?"

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE GAY LITTLE MARQUISE, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER, CONTINUED

"Wait here," I said to my sister, and I left her abruptly, disregarding her surprised and anxious look. She did not seem to understand what she had done that we all should leave her so abruptly to her own devices. I remember thinking, little Marquise, to myself, that Karl was altogether too lenient with her, and my lips tightened rather grimly as I thought of what John would do with her if she went into one of these tantrums.

Arriving at my room, I took the jewel case which contained the pearls from my bureau drawer and hurried back to Alice. She was sitting just where I had left her, and had the same look of indecision upon her face.

"Here are the jewels, Alice," I exclaimed as I dropped them into her lap. "Now I hope, as you have gotten your wish, you will not make me any more trouble over them. I solemnly promised Karl I would never part with them, and I gave him this promise, not so much because they were intrinsically valuable, as because I knew they meant so much to him. It may not mean much to you, but to me promises are binding, and I considered this one so binding that I even braved John's great displeasure to keep it.

"God knows I don't want this necklace. Ever since I have known the pearls were real I have been made unhappy by them. They have meant the traditional tears to me, and tihis is chiefly because you have been so unreasonable about them.

"I cannot understand your attitude, but the why or wherefore you should feel as you do, hereafter will have no effect upon me. I give them into your keeping, and I hope they will not bring you as much annoyance and sorrow as they have to me.

I never want to look upon them again."

I was so angy I had not noticed that both John and Karl had come into the room, and was greatly surprised when Karl came quickly forward, and picked up the case from Alice's lap. With it in his hands he turned to me, standing beside my husband, who had put is arm protectingly about me.

"I am sorry, Leslie," Karl said decidedly, "that you have had to break your promise to me and let this case and what it contains go out of your possession. These pearls were yours. They have been yours ever since I bought the first one as a boy, and I hoped that they would go from you to your daughter and so on down, after you and I should both be dead.

"They meant so much of my youth to me."

"I can see, however, that retaining them would mean too much unhappiness to you, so I take them back into my own keeping. They can never belong to Alice. Immediately I shall put them in a safe place, and I shall add a codicil to my will leaving them yours. There they will rest until my death, or until Alice comes to her senses and asks your and your husband's forgiveness for all the trouble she has made you.

"When you married your husband, Leslie, my love for you became friendship. Otherwise I would have never married your sister.

"I shall remember this unseemly outburst of temper on the part of Alice with great concern, because I know that unless she tries to curb her ungovernable rages, they will lead her into dire consequences."

STANDARD OIL DENIES CHARGE

Claims Cracking Process Was Given to World

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The Standard Oil of Indiana is not engaged in any combination or conspiracy in restraint of trade nor is it attempting to monopolize the gasoline "cracking" process, according to a reply filed here today to the government suit against the Standard and 50 other companies.

The company invented the "cracking" process and might have lawfully kept it to itself, the reply states. Instead it licensed other manufacturers to use it, thereby increasing the amount of gasoline produced and kept prices to consumers lower than they would otherwise have been, the answer stated.

The "pooling" charge made by the government is admitted by the company, but the real purpose was to protect the manufacturers and not to restrain trade, the company declared.

'SLUSH FUND' PROBE RENEWED

Inquiry Into Party War Chest Completed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The men directly involved in Senator La Follette's charge that a huge "slush fund" was being raised by republican bankers and business interests to "buy" the election for President Coolidge were scheduled to appear today before the special senate committee investigating campaign contributions.

All preliminary inquiry into the extent of party war chests having been completed, Chairman Borah announced the committee was prepared to go to the bottom of La Follette's charges.

C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge named by the independent presidential candidate as the man who was to disburse the "slush fund" probably will be called in this connection, Senator Caraway, Arkansas, democratic member of the committee, said today.

A British Museum expert who is helping with the excavation declared the old Romans were quite up-to-date in their methods of dentistry, and that evidence had been found that they used gold filling.

During these attacks my heart would act in a peculiar way and I felt miserable all over. Finally it got so that I had to lay off work every few weeks. A friend advised me to try M. A. ## WORLD COURT PLAN FLAYED

Davis Sarcastically Questions Promises of G.O.P.

VINCENNES, Ind., Oct. 22.—Invading Southern Indiana, John W. Davis today summoned new ammunition for his attack upon the republican party—deriding their method of collecting campaign contributions and sarcastically questioning them as to what happened to their promised plans for a world association of nations.

With but three days remaining before he arrives back east the democratic candidate crashed through the soft reserve that has dignified his speeches and spoke more harshly of his opponents than he has heretofore.

His statements and speech bespeak confidence that a "great silent vote"—as his friends have described it—will two weeks from today acclaim him president of the United States. He is determined to make his last bid for votes in New England and New York state and after a speech here and at Evansville today he will stop only at Cleveland tomorrow before returning for the final drive.

RUM RUNNER TAKEN AFTER FUSILLADE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—More than 100 cans of alcohol and forty-seven cases of whisky were captured today in the motor boat Mazazik by the police boat Gypsy after a chase during which the pursuers fired several fusillades. A member of the crew on the pursued boat leaped overboard rather than face the hail of lead. He was not seen again. Two men were arrested.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Reclamation of 20,000 acres of land to be turned into residential districts adjacent to New Orleans will be started in Jefferson parish this week. The district embraces all of that part of Jefferson parish between Lake Pontchartrain and the Mississippi river, north of Orleans parish. More than a dozen drainage canals and four mammoth pumps will turn the marshy and swamp lands into a residential area 10 miles long, and averaging three miles wide.

LAKE CHARLES, La.—James Rich, a young stranger here, is seriously ill in a local sanitarium from the effects of swallowing poison, taken while he was ill, authorities who investigated the case, reported. # Galveston to Fight for Chance to Stay in Race

BRUISES GIVEN BY BEAUMONT TO BE AVENGED

Kennedy Works Tornadoes Hard After Monday

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 22.—It was a battered and bruised bunch of athletes that Coach Marvin Kennedy led on the field Monday afternoon for the first practice in preparation for the game with Port Arthur Saturday. Practically every member of the squad was nursing injuries of some nature.

In the back field Julio Luguarta was the only athlete who was not suffering from injuries while those in the line who were not nursing injuries could be counted on the fingers of one hand. Jim and Joe Murphy are both nursing damaged ribs as the result of their ferocious tackling in the game with Beaumont, while Harry Klein is bruised about the head and shoulders. Balderach, who put up a great game at guard, is nursing a bad leg in addition to a number of other black and blue spots.

To recount the various and sundry injuries suffered by the players would fill a volume, but suffice it to say that all of the grid warriors bore evidence of the heroic fight they made against Beaumont.

Light workouts were the order of things Monday, Coach Kennedy not wishing to push his charges with their injuries. Tuesday told another story, as he began getting down to hard facts in training the team for the battle with Port Arthur Saturday.

The Port Arthur club has the reputation of being as strong, if not stronger, than the Beaumont club, and with the team in a crippled condition it is going to be a hard matter to defeat them.

Should the Golden Tornado team defeat Port Arthur they will still have a fighting chance to remain in the running for the district championship, as Beaumont will yet have to meet the Port Arthur aggregation, and there is a possibility that Port Arthur will slip over a victory, as they will be playing on the same kind of a field as at home, whereas here they will be playing on a sandy field instead of a sodded one.

Smith May Take 40 Boys to Galveston

While Galveston is not regarded as the most important game of the Yellowjacket schedule, the high school boys are plunging ahead with only Saturday's game in view. The following games will take care of themselves when time comes. Scrimmage with the Pirate team is stiffening up the boys this week for the hard games that are on hand after the more or less easy affairs so far.

Coaches Smith, Hanna and Sandefur are making every effort to drill as perfect a system of play into the Yellowjackets as possible, for every bit of it will be needed. Galveston defeated by Beaumont, has no love for Port Arthur, and will fight doubly hard Saturday on its own field. Incidentally, a sandy field won't make the going any too pleasant for the Yellowjackets. Franklin field is turf covered, although the practice field at the high school is about as sandy as possible.

Last tickets for the special train to Galveston were sold today, and while the total number sold was not available this morning, it was believed the special train was assured. The train leaves Beaumont via the Santa Fe at 10:15 Saturday morning.

Smith probably will take his entire squad of about 40 boys to Galveston if the special train is assured. The trip going will be made Friday, returning Saturday night on the special. If there should be no special, probably only about 20 players will be taken.

Hale and Madden, varsity halfbacks, lugged the ball to classes today.

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—With a scarcity of substitutes, Coach Stewart was busy today attempting to plug the holes in his line resulting from injuries in last week-end's game. Another stiff practice was scheduled for the Longhorns today as preparation for the Florida visitors Saturday.

WACO, Oct. 22.—Hundreds of new seats were being installed at the Cotton Palace gridiron here today to handle the crowd expected at the Baylor-Austin College mix Saturday.

Intersectional Grid Honors Cinched By Big Ten Teams

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—With half the season gone and most of the inter-sectional games out of the way, the middle west practically has cinched the season's inter-sectional championship.

Marquette has defeated the Navy, Notre Dame has defeated the Army, Chicago has beaten Brown, and Nebraska has beaten Colgate.

Notre Dame has three more intersectional games against Princeton, Georgia Tech and Carnegie Tech, and it is quite possible that three more victories will be chalked up.

"Irish" Play Wisconsin

The western conference teams have made the best showing of any organized group in the country. In twenty games this season between conference teams and non-members they have won 17, lost two and tied one.

Missouri, one of the big guns of the Missouri Valley conference, beat Chicago 3 to 0. Louisiana came up from the south and beat Indiana and little Coe held Wisconsin to a 7-7 tie.

Notre Dame has two more games with conference members, Wisconsin and Northwestern, and the chances aren't very bright for the conference teams. The Wisconsin-Notre Dame game will be one of the biggest games of the year as the conference is lined up to a man behind Wisconsin to uphold the prestige of the "Big Ten."

Notre Dame is going into the Princeton game Saturday with a team that Knute Rockne is worried over. The writer saw Notre Dame workout yesterday at South Bend and Rockne admitted that he wasn't so sure. Rockne is no Dobie in spreading gloom but he is worried over center.

Chicago vs. Ohio State

Adam Walsh, who was cinching an all-American berth, is out of the game for three weeks with two broken hands and Rockne admits gloomily that he had no one to take his star center's place.

The Notre Dame squad leaves tonight for Princeton and the University of Chicago squad also will shove off for Columbus, where the team will play the big game of the conference week against Ohio State on Saturday.

CLUB TO HOLD SMOKER FRIDAY

Guest and Ewing to Stage Feature Attraction

Members of the Port Arthur Athletic club are invited out Friday night to another athletic smoker in place of the affair last week which had to be postponed. The club has only recently reopened with fully repaired fixtures, is open from 10 a. m to 11 p. m.

The feature attraction of the athletic smoker Friday will be a boxing exhibition between Jimmy Guest and Wildcat Ewing. Guest has only recently returned from a tour of Mexico and while a stranger here, has the reputation of being a good boxer. Ewing is well known to the sporting public of Port Arthur. Preliminaries will be held.

Fort Worth Elevens Out of State Race

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 22.—Fort Worth is another of the big town teams already eliminated in the interscholastic championship football race. Central high of Fort Worth, coached by Abe Curtis, was defeated by Bryan high of Dallas Saturday, 40 to 6. The two teams fought to a 6-6 tie through the first half, but a passing attack opened up by Dallas bewildered the cow town team in the last half.

Polytechnic high of Fort Worth was downed 20 to 6 by Gainesville. A pass over the goal line accounted for Poly's only score. Poly is coached by Rube Leissner. North Side high of Fort Worth, not a member of the interscholastic league, defeated Arlington Saturday, 25 to 0.

Seen In The Squared Ring

CLEVELAND.—Johnny Dundee, New York, veteran lightweight, will meet Charlie O'Connell, hard hitting local youngster, here tonight in a 1[illegible]-round decision bout.

PARIS.—Knocked out by Frances Charles, French middleweight champion, in the eleventh round Young Gravet was carried from the ring unconscious last night and taken to hospital. Today he was still unconscious and his condition grave. The knockout blow was a right to the heart.

MIDDIES ON CRUTCHES

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—Five navy players, injured in the Princeton game, were out of the lineup during scrimmage yesterday and the veteran Clyde was still on crutches, assisting the coaches on the sidelines. Captain Taylor, Lentz, Flippen and Forsberg may be out of the lineup for another week.

ZUPPKE LIGHTENS WORK

URBANA, Ills., Oct. 22.—Bob Zuppke lessened the scrimmage to light practice, running no chances of his Illini squad "going stale." The Depauw game Saturday is expected to be easy. Heavy work will be resumed in preparation for Iowa.

VARSITY VS. FRESHMEN

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 22.—The Indiana varsity and the "frosh" will scrimmage on the local field Saturday. Receipts will be used to send the band to Ohio State November 8.

WILLIE HOPPE LEADS KIECKHEFER 100 TO 57

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Willie Hoppe today went into the second block of his 400 point title three-cushion billiard match with Augie Kieckhefer, leading the challenger 100 to 57.

T. C. U. COACH SAYS SATURDAY TO TELL TALE

Says Aggies and Methodists Leaders in Grid Race

By MADISON BELL
Coach Texas Christian University
Written for the Unitde Press Ass'n.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 22.—The coming Saturday may decide the southwestern conference football champions of 1924.

The game between S. M. U. and Texas A. and M. at Dallas is by far the most important of the season, for it brings together the teams that are really the leaders in the chase for the 1924 title.

Owls Seek Revenge

Granting the Mustangs the edge because of their impressive victory over the Texas Longhorns last week, I am still of the opinion that the Ponies will be strong opposition when they attack the Farmers.

It will be foolish for me to say that my Horned Frogs will win the conference crown, for I do not expect to finish first. At least, the Frogs are dangerous as was proved when they defeated the strong Oklahoma A. and M. eleven.

In our game with Rice next Saturday, I expect the Owls to give us a tough scrap. It's going to be a battle all the way. The Houstonians are seeking revenge for the beating we gave them on their home field in 1923, but my team will be in splendid shape and I have plenty of reserve strength.

The Horned Frogs have a tough schedule. We play Rice, S. M. U., Texas A. and M., Texas and Arkansas in conference games. If we had Baylor we might have a good season's work ahead of us. That's an ambitious card, but the Frogs want plenty of opposition and I might add, they certainly have it.

Texas-Florida Important

Much interest is attached to the big inter-sectional game at Austin Saturday when Texas meets Flordia. The Florida squad must be a corker, for the scribes considered Georgia Tech lucky in trying them.

My advice to conference fans is: "watch the Mustangs and Texas Aggies." One of these teams will win the conference championship, unless the much abused dope bucket gets another hard kick.

Princeton Messed Up By Plays of 'Micks'

PRINCETON, Oct. 22. Notre Dame plays executed by an all star team of coaches and former Tiger players in scrimmage yesterday had the varsity completely befuddled and demonstrated they need a lot of improvement if they hope to stop the Catholics shifty attack next Saturday.

YALE DEVELOPS ATTACK

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 22.—Scrimmage yesterday was consumed in developing the varsity attack, which pepped up under driving of the coaches and three touchdowns were made against the scrubs. With the exception of Echart in Worthman's place at right guard, the team was the same as played against Dartmouth last Saturday.

Harvard Backs Weigh 190 Against Dartmouth

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 22.—Harvard is making strong preparations for the Dartmouth game next Saturday, following the Green's feat in holding Yale to a tie. With a 190-pound backfield composed of Gehreke, Miller and Hammond, the Crimson hopes to get away with the big end of the score.

Talaber Winner Over Heine Engle on Mat

NEW QUARTER FOR ARMY

WEST POINT, Oct. 22.—Harding, who scored the Army's lone touchdown against Notre Dame, alternated at quarterback with the regular Yeomans on the varsity in scrimmage yesterday.

WRESTLING

The Match the Fans Wanted

TONY BENARDI "THE GAS HOUSE WOP"

VS.

VIC TUOHY THAT TOUGH BOY

ELKS THEATRE
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23RD
8:30 P. M.
Seats $1—$1.50—$2

BOSTON MATMAN LANDS IN CITY REARIN' TO GO

Tuohy-Bernardi Bout May Furnish Eklund Mill

Prepared for his finish, no-time-limit match against Tony Bernardi, "The Gas House Wop," in Elks theatre arena here tomorrow night, Vic Tuohy, Boston youth, was expected to arrive here late this afternoon. He will probably be accompanied to the city by John Wallace, wrestling empressario of Port Arthur.

The Tuohy-Bernardi match will be staged at 8:30 o'clock, and because of its similarity to the Jones-Bernardi tilt, is expected to attract a host of fans.

Although no definite announcements have been made by Promoter Wallace from his headquarters in Houston, it is understood that the grappling mentor is contemplating a finish titular bill in the local arena before the Thanksgiving holidays, and it is probable that the winner of tomorrow night's clash may be groomed for a turn with Clarence Eklund, king of the light-heavies.

Eklund has recently won victories over Stewart and Actor, the latter wrestler being well-known in local sporting circles as a whirlwind Greek with lots of stuff. George Vassel recently lost the first match of the season in Oklahoma to Eklund, the champ taking two straights over George.

Either Tuohy or Bernardi would be a stiff match for Eklund. Should Tuohy face the title-holder, Port Arthur fans would get a chance to lamp two exponents of wrestling science well-matched, while if Bernardi is groomed for the bout, it would be another rough-and-tumbler pitted against a scientific man who is accredited with knowing and using more grips and holds than any other man in the game.

Wallace has indicated that Eklund will probably appear in two clashes here this season, Paul Jones, the Houston phenom, probably being used in one of the mills against the champion.

Jones has faced Eklund on three other occasions, having lost a match at the 175-pound limit while he toppled Clarence at catch-weights. In their third encounter, staged recently in Houston under the promotion of Julius Sirel, the men appeared on a double bill under a time limit, and were unable to gain an advantage either way. Port Arthur has clamored loudly for a Jones-Eklund bill for some time; the match was urged last season, but schedules of the two men failed to bring them together here, and it is quite likely that Promoter Wallace, with an opportunity to match them up this season, will not let the occasion go by.

Tuohy and Bernardi are both conditioned for their mill tomorrow evening, the "Gas House" tumbler having clashed for a solid week with an Athletic Carnival stable to do his training, while Tuohy has been working out in Houston. Since the Boston boy has remained in Texas since his initial appearance here against Jones, the chances are all in his favor tomorrow night from a standpoint of being acclimated, he having been in the southland longer than Bernardi; it was this one phase of his first scrap in Texas that prevented him from doing much of his stuff.

Hammerlocks, headlocks, wrist locks, the leg scissor, spread-eagle and Gotch holds will probably be smeared from one end of the mats to the other Thursday night, since Tuohy uses 'em all, and clamps each with equal ferocity. Bernardi is more of a rough-and-tumble style of wrestler, taking the first thing that comes his way and using every advantage offered.

Hurricane Line Averages 210 Pounds With Center 225; Island Club Defeated First Ward of Houston by 34 to 0 Score

The strong Galveston Hurricanes will furnish the competition for the Port Arthur Pirates here Sunday, it was announced yesterday by Captain "Germany" Piettman of the locals. The game wil be played on the pier, as the city commission has granted this permission and the Dodson shows will have their wagons moved out of the way by Sunday, it is said. The bath-house at the pier will be used as a dressing room.

Galveston has played three games this season and won them all. The Hurricane line averages 210 pounds, according to reports, the center alone weighing 255 pounds. The Pirates are confident this will be their hardest game of the season.

The Hurricanes defeated the First Ward Cubs that played here last Sunday 34 to 0, while the Pirates won only 19 to 0 from them. Several new men are coming out for practice with the Pirates this week, and a better lineup probably will be presented against Galveston. Three days of scrimmage are planned against the high school Yellowjackets.

Crim, who played end Sunday, was reported early this week as in bed with a ruptured blood vessel in the back of his head, but doctors say he will be in shape by Sunday.

SOONERS PLAY DRAKE

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 22.—Coach Bennie Owens' Sooner squad are going through several hard practices this week in preparation for their game with Drake Saturday, following their defeat at the hands of the freshman squad last week-end.

PURPLE WORKS HARD

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 22.—A new northwestern interference is being built around Baker for use against the Michigan Aggies. Quarter Solheim is recovering form after having been slowed up by torn ligaments in his foot. Scrimmage was long and businesslike.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 22.—Reports of radical shifts in lineup emanated from the secret practice camp of Michigan's team today. Steger, it is reported, will play quarter against Wisconsin.

PURDUE SUBS WORKED

LA FAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 22.—Jimmy Phelan is centering interests on development of a stronger Purdue rescue squad. The Boilermaker varsity was held to light signal practice and the subs were given a hard scrimmage.

ROCKNE WORRIES OVER

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 22.—Coach Rockne wore furrowed brows today as he searched for a center to throw into the Notre Dame-Princeton classic to replace the injured Captain Walsh. Bumps and bruises kept several other regulars out but they will get back before the game.

PURPLE'S GAME AGAINST S'PARK UP TO FRIDAY

Dimmitt May Take Team To Galveston Saturday

BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 29.—Friday instead of Saturday will be the day for the city high school championship battle between Beaumont High and South Park High, it was decided yesterday by Coaches Dimmitt and Fehl. The game will be played at Magnolia park. No reason was assigned, but it is presumed that Dimmitt intends to take his purple crew to Galveston Saturday to see the Port Arthur Yellowjackets in action against Galveston.

Reports here are that the Yellowjackets will be the most formidable team Beaumont will have to face for the district title, the general tendency being to discount Houston Central and Houston Heights, although it is rather hard to say where this talk started.

While Beaumont high is obviously a favorite over South Park, still Fehl's boys have it in for the heavier team and are out to throw a few surprises into them. Everything in Beaumont always goes to Beaumont high, little attention being given South Park, and the S'Park boys have acquired rather a chronic grouch over it. Consequently they will be out for meat Friday.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 2—DADDY GANDER'S DUST PAN

"Well, well, well! Good-morning, everybody!" said a cheery voice.

"It is too queer what became of the House That Jack Built," remarked Mister Spratt at the breakfast table.

"It certainly is," said Mrs. Sprat, helping herself to another piece of bacon.

"The queerest thing we ever heard of," said the Twins pouring more molasses over their pancakes.

But Jack and Jill and Mrs. John didn't say anything. And they weren't eating much either.

Jack was thinking of all his work for nothing.

Jill was thinking of her dolls and all her play furniture and everything. And Mrs. John was thinking of her lost cook-stove and her lost sewing machine, and all her fall sewing to do, too! And her bread-sponge all set for raising!

"Well, well, well! Good morning, everybody," said a cheery voice. And there stood old Daddy Gander in the doorway, his magic dust-pan under his arm.

"Hello, Daddy," said Jack Spratt. "Come on and sit down. Have you heard the news?"

"No," said Daddy Gander. "You don't mean to say that the Old Shoe Woman has been spanking her children again, do you?"

"No, worse than that," said Mrs. Sprat with her mouth full of bacon.

"You don't mean that old Poppleton Bun, the miller-man, has gone to sleep and snored flour-dust all over town, do you?" said Daddy Gander.

"No, it's worse that that," cried Mrs. John. "Our house is gone! The nice litle house that my son, Jack, built up on Pippin Hill!"

"Yes, sir!" said Nancy. "It's all gone. Nothing left but the cellar. Nick and I saw it just now."

"Land o' Goshen!" cried Daddy Gander. "I never heard of such a thing. And Mother Goose away, too! She might know what to do if she were at home. You don't s'pose—"

"What, Daddy!" cried everybody.

"You don't s'pose—"

Daddy stopped again. "Oh, I just cannot say it. I do not know why I ever thought of such a thing! You don't suppose—"

"What don't we suppose, sir?" said Jack Spratt.

"You don't suppose," whispered Daddy Gander, "that Peter Peter could have taken it, do you?"

"Peter Peter!" cried Mrs. Spratt. "Why should he take it?"

"Well," said Daddy Gander with a wise wag of his head, "they say that after he got married he hadn't a cent to live on and he had to put his wife into a pumpkin shell."

"Daddy Gander, you're an old gossip," said Mrs. John. "Peter Peter didn't take our house any more than he did the moon. Why, only yesterday Mrs. Peter Peter told me how happy she was when she came to get my recipe for pumpkin-pie. Just give Peter Peter a chance. He is young yet and it isn't everybody who is as smart as my Jack and can build a house. Oh, boo hoo! I forgot! Our nice litlet house is gone and I'll never see it any more."

"Fiddlesticks," said Daddy Gander. "We'll find it for you. My goodness! You'd think you had lost a diamond ring or something you could hide behind a potato-skin. A house! Why my goodness, it ought to be as easy to find as a stone-bruise! Come on, Twins. Here's my magic dust pan. Hop on and we'll hunt for the House That Jack Built."

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

DARING THE STRAITS OF MAGELLAN

When Queen Elizabeth asked Drake to help her get revenge on Spain, you may be sure he was not slow to say he would do so. They agreed on a daring scheme. Drake was to set sail for a "port unknown." He was to take his ships down around South America, then up along the western coast. Once in the region of Peru, he was to seize whatever Spanish ships and treasure he could lay hands on.

Indians mining for the Spaniards. It was gold and silver dug up by the red men that Drake wanted to seize from Spanish towns and ships.

Without letting this plan be known Drake set out with five ships and 200 men. They sailed across the South Atlantic. When not far from South America, some of the men began to murmur. Drake offered them one of his ships to use to sail homeward, but the offer was not accepted.

At last the fleet entered the Straits of Magellan. This was a dangerous region and sailors feared to get into it. The English, however, braved it as well as they might.

Day after day, they made their way through narrow channels. It was so far south that blocks of ice floated in the water. Giant glaciers rose on either slope. Some of the channels were so deep that no cable could reach bottom. This struck fear into the sailors' hearts.

One good feature of the passage of the straits was the finding of an island whose shore was almost covered with penguins. The penguin, as you know, is a large diving bird which cannot fly. The penguins found by Drake's men were as tame as could be wished. Perhaps they had never seen human beings before. Three thousand of them were killed for food. Those which could not be eaten were salted down for the rest of the trip.

After 17 days the fleet entered the Pacific, which was then still called the "South Sea." The part of it into which they came surely was not "pacific." They were greeted by a storm which lasted for 53 days. Snow and darkness were with them almost all the while. The ships were scattered and never joined one another again. Two were sunk, two sailed back to England after the storm was over. Only one kept going on its course.

As you might guess, the one which kept to its course was under the command of Drake. It was the largest and fastest of all and had enough cannon to bring real damage to the Spaniards along the western coast of South America.

Logan Issues Statement on Tax Levied by Commission Here

City Proceeding to Carry Out Detail as Prescribed By Law, Mayor Announces To Public

Speaking for himself and the city council, Mayor J. P. Logan in an official statement today which he said was for the benefit of those taxpayers who seem not to understand why the city body levied a tax to provide interest and sinking fund for the bonds issued last November, made the following public:

"For the information of those taxpayers who do not understand why the commission levied a tax to provide interest and sinking fund for the bond issue authorized last November, the commission wishes to make the following statement:

"The bonds were authorized at an election held in the month of November, 1923. Following that election, the commission and the city's legal department proceeded as the law directs to perfect all legal details necessary to complete the record and prepare the bonds for the market. These preliminaries were not completed until the latter part of March, and on April 1st the bonds had been approved by the attorney general, registered by the comptroller and had also received the approval of Wood & Oakley, recognized bond attorneys of Chicago. The actual bonds also had been lithographed and about April 1st, with the record complete, were advertised for sale.

"Thus the commission, proceeding under authority of the people, had completed and issued a legal and binding obligation upon the City of Port Arthur for the amount of the bond issue. Under such a situation, the law directs, and the direction is mandatory, that a tax levy shall be made to provide interest and sinking fund for the issue. This levy, in fact, is required before the bond are issued, as a part of the record receiving the approval of the attorney general and bond attorneys, and a levy for one year had been made a part of the ordinance authorizing the issue.

"Thus it will be seen that the official act of making the levy was not a matter of choice on the part of the commission. Assuming that the people wanted the bonds issued and sold, the commission could have done nothing else and would have been subject to severest criticism had it neglected to make the tax levy and thus caused the disapproval of the record by the state's authorities and bond attorneys.

"Had the bonds been sold at the time specified in the advertisement the money could long ago have been available and much of the work contemplated well under way, the taxpayers would have had visible evidence of the benefits accruing and there would have been cause for neither disappointment nor complaint.

"But an interest over which neither the commission nor the citizenship generally seems to have any control intervened and the bonds were held up by litigation.

"It will be remembered that the petition for an injunction holding up the sale of the bonds was not presented to the court until a few hours before the date set for the sale of the bonds. The commission, while it had heard rumors to the effect that such action might be taken, had never been definitely advised that it would be done. Therefore, its efforts to carry out the instructions of the voters at the polls, which have since been definitely confirmed by a very great majority of the taxpayers, were defeated by a half dozen citizens who disapproved the measure and resorted to the courts to defeat the expressed wishes of the majority of the people of Port Arthur.

"It is this action, and neither the commission nor the taxpayers generally, which is to blame for the present situation. Not only has it delayed carrying out the highly necessary public works another year, but it is directly and solely responsible for the levy made upon the taxpayers from which they apparently are receiving no benefit.

"Had the men opposing the bond issue begun their litigation at some earlier date, even as late as January or February, 1924, the levy, while provided for in the ordinance, would not have been collected, because the record would not have been completed and the bonds would not have been issued. The record would have stood as incomplete until the court litigation had been completed, with the result that no tax money could or would have been taken from the taxpayers for the proposed interest and sinking fund.

"But since the obstructionists deliberately and with the apparent purpose to make the entire project as burdensome as possible upon the people, waited until every legal step had been taken and the bonds had become a legal and binding obligation upon the City of Port Arthur, even though they have not been sold, they alone became responsible for the seemingly premature tax levy."

FUN, FROLIC FOR '40 AND 8ERS'

J. L. Dunn Plans Bigger Entertainment For Body

More fun and frolic for members of the Jefferson County Voiture 40 and 8, the playground of the American Legion, will be the policy of James L. Dunn, who was elected chef de gare of the Voiture at the meeting at Beaumont last Saturday night, he said today.

"Activities of the 40 and 8 should be most enjoyable and care free," Dunn, who is also past commander of Rudolph Lambert post, American Legion, said. "The gatherings of 40 and 8'ers should be bubbling over with fun and frolic from beginning to end, and following out such a policy, I believe more Legionnaires will want to come into the organization's playground," he said.

Other Port Arthurians given official position in the Voiture are W. J. Burch, elected correspondent, or adjutant; and Earl LeBlanc, chosen as conducteur, or master of ceremonies, in charge of the initiations. About 50 40 and 8ers of the Voiture attended the Beaumont frolic, when a bunch from Sour Lake were initiated. The next meeting is scheduled for sometime during November, in Port Arthur, Dunn said.

WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Stabilization of money rates at the low levels of this summer and optimistic trade advices combined to bring about generally higher prices of both railroad and industrial shares, although Bethlehem Steel displayed acute weakness.

Accelerated by urgent short covering, the upward movement swept ahead vigorously in the morning trading. Distinguished leadership was afforded in the strength of Steel, Baldwin, American Can and General Electric.

About the only discordant note in the business news was the description of conditions in the sugar industry. One prominent executive said the European crop would be 1,800,000 pounds greater than last year, pointing to lower raw sugar prices.
